

LAZ MCCORMICK

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT
& FIRST NATIONS
DESIGN STRATEGIST.

As Landscape Architects, our role transcends the conventional boundaries of a profession; we are the conduit through which a healthier, more harmonious planet is imagined and envisioned and then brought to life for a purpose that is greater than the sum of its parts. Our designs go beyond what the Developer sees or what the Government wants to spend; they are declarations of balance, respect, and coexistence. They have meaning, function and genuine purpose.

I like to think of myself as a creative solution finder, with design as my medium. My work reflects my penchant for the offbeat, while carefully but intentionally prioritising environment and community. As a First Nations designer, I feel a responsibility to amplify the voices and narratives that have been marginalised.

I am currently contributing as a First Nations Woman and designer to assist in the delivery of design concepts and packages, through all typical stages. I am remotely collaborating, and providing insight, research, interpretation, and visual curation of designs for multiple disciplines.
